Collectrium announces partnership with international fine art transport and storage specialist, Racine Berkow Associates

NEW YORK – The leading collection management platform, Collectrium, announces a long-term partnership with Racine Berkow Associates, Inc. (RBA), the global freight forwarder and licensed customs broker specializing in the transport and storage of works of art for museums, galleries and private collectors around the world.

Collectrium is the only technology platform with everything collectors need to manage and care for their valuable collections, easily and privately. Trusted by thousands of collectors around the world, Collectrium is the recognized standard and innovator in the industry.

RBA is joining the growing list of Collectrium's partners as the first US-based logistics partner. This will reinforce the services that Collectrium offers to its client base.

RBA clients will enjoy the benefits of bringing together the tools and services a collector needs to manage and care for their works, all in an experience that's engaging, intuitive and easy to use. The Collectrium app offers access from anywhere. Collectrium clients enjoy the ability to compare the performance of their assets against global auction results and related news. They can do all this and more, confident of the bank-level privacy of Collectrium.

“We strive to offer partner services from organizations around the world that deliver synergistic services for our clients. RBA is another example of a premier, specialist service, addressing our clients’ needs and allaying their concerns in the area of transport and logistics for their artworks. We are delighted to announce this partnership with RBA.”

Boris Pevzner, CEO of Collectrium

“We too are very glad to announce this partnership. Our business philosophy centers on care, commitment, confidentiality and cost, and Collectrium’s digital collection management platform will be of great benefit to our clients in organizing their collections. Collectrium perfectly complements the way we operate and serve our clients.”

Racine Berkow, President of RBA

About Collectrium

Collectrium is the leading collection management platform for high-value fine art and collectibles. Founded in 2009, the company was acquired by Christie’s in 2015 and continues to operate independently, with offices and clients in the Americas, Europe and Asia. Collectrium was designed specifically for collectors, by a team of technology and digital security experts, and has earned the trust of tens of thousands of clients worldwide. Leading the industry in innovation through agile development and partnering with best-in-class art service providers, Collectrium is the only platform to integrate all collection-care and management tools in a single experience that is comprehensive, engaging, mobile and secure. www.collectrium.com
